

ICOTT'S WIFE IS STILL HAPPIER.

Women Are Absolved
from Her List of His Crimes.

STILL ARE LEFT.

Conviction of These the ncellor Asks for Still More Testimony.

ELLS WHY SHE LAUGHS.

nusement at the Folly of Her and Is Expressed by Her in Two General Propositions.

After yesterday's trial for her suit force in the Chancery Court of New-York, Mrs. George W. Endicott enter her carriage her forehead was ed still by her frowns at her husband's lawyer, but as her temperance is all joyful, suddenly she laughed.

Laughed, principally because the cellor had said that there were only Frances Ford and Miss Wells—of the co-respondents accused by her whose names had not yet impressed itself into her mind. Mrs. Endicott asks nothing happier than that all the world say: "Your jealousy deceived you; proofs are proofs only of your hallucination."

A Keyhole Expert.

trial, at her request, to convince rather than to condemn Dr. Endicott.
Identically, an expert in visual angles, J. J. Bunsley, came yesterday to testify that it was possible to see through a keyhole as she saw, a man and a woman embracing in Dr. Endicott's office.
Testimony was regarded as useless instead by the Chancellor. It was her case Mrs. Wadsworth, and the Chancellor absolved Mrs. Wadsworth absolutely Nannie Woodhouse, also absolved the Chancellor, appeared Mrs. J. M.

Wells, who keeps a boarding house. She sympathetic figure, extremely pale, with hair turning white, in curls, and wearing a veil. She said:

Woodhouse told me that Dr. Endicott told her to go to New York with him, but she had refused for fear of being explained, because it seemed to me that Dr. Endicott came to see her too often, and I lost faith in her and respect for her.

Martin has signed, however, for Dr.
Endicott's counsel a statement that she had discovered impropriety between the Chancellor and Miss Woodhouse, and this statement was produced to torment her. She said Dr. Endicott's counsel:

igned this statement reluctantly for Dr. Marsh, because you implied me fr. saying, "Think of his social position, think of his profession, think of his who must suffer for his father's misdeeds." I signed this statement because I never saw, I only knew him in the impropriety of which I complained.

Against Frances Ford.

Frank Bergen contradicted Frances Ford's statement of her admissions, repeating the language of Mrs. Endicott's charge against her husband's own confession. Mr. Bergen said Mrs. Endicott's counsel until April or last year:

Endicott identified undated letters of her husband. She knew when they were written by her because they were the only ones that he wrote to her while she was in New York. Dr. Endicott whispered to her, and the latter asked:

these the only letters which you received at Asbury Park?

Endicott played archly with the Chancellor for an instant, asking herself, if she should provoke jealousy turn, but she frowned and replied:

admitted that she knew the character of Frances Ford and yet would leave the house with her husband, alone.
Chancellor asked, "When did you believe your husband of infidelity?" replied, "In 1887."

asked, "When did you begin to suspect him of infidelity with Frances Ford?" replied, "I never suspected. I could suspect him of anything, but I could not suspect him of infidelity."

en, with all the energy of her voice, which is melodious and emphatic, Mrs.
Endicott replied to a question of her examiner, "I swear that I never asked a servant to watch my husband. I swear that I never made a bargain with Frances Ford to aid me in obtaining a divorce from my husband."

Absolves Them from Guilt.

At the end of the session the Chancellor, in adjourning to the latter part of October the continuation of the trial, said: "Miss Wells and Dr. Endicott were in New York on the same dates. Both have testified to the use which they made of their time there. Miss Wells said she went to her mother's house; Dr. Endicott said he went to his brother's. I suppose the complai-ant will be able to give contradictory testimony at the next session."

"I expect some testimony against Frances Ford also. Against those two persons only, I am sure, the complaint may expect to make her plea for a divorce decree effective."

Dr. Endicott helped his lawyers to pack books and papers. Mrs. Endicott helped her lawyer to pack his. "It is surprising," she said to Mr. McCarter, her lawyer, "how ignorant of a woman's feelings a man may be. She is willing to suffer privations of all kinds; she is willing, in the service of her husband, not to know fatigue, nor impatience, nor sleep. She consents to everything, except to be disinclined.
She is absolutely devoted, but she will not admit that he may ask for a kiss from the maid, or for advice from the trained nurse when his wife is ever prepared to give him her stock of advice and kisses.
This is a general proposition."

Crushed by a Water Tank.

Buffalo, N. Y., July 13.—A water tank on top of the five-story tannery of Schoolkopf & Co. crashed through the roof at noon and finally collapsed at the second floor, where it struck a beam. Five men, Frank Dobrowski, his son John, Gustavus Fleisch, John Richter and Frank Fisher were injured, but none of them fatally.

Confederates Will Honor Logan.

Atlanta, Ga., July 13.—General John B.
Gordon, Commander-in-Chief of the United Confederate Veterans, to-day issued an address accepting the invitation recently extended by the organization by the Logan Monument Association of Chicago to participate in the unveiling July 22 of the monument to General John A. Logan.

FIVE OF THE STARS FOR THE BENEFIT AT OLYMPIA.

THE vaudeville entertainment at Hammerstein's Olympia Roof Garden on Friday evening next in aid of the Journal Junior Republic Fund will, beyond a doubt, prove to be the greatest performance of its kind ever given in this city.
Mr. Oscar Hammerstein, whose generosity makes it possible to give it at his magnificent amusement resort, will receive for his kindly deed the blessings of a couple of hundred of little lads who, before they became self-ruling and self-supporting citizens of the little republic in Rockland County, were for the most part ragged urchins wandering aimlessly about the streets of the great metropolis, hungry and homeless.

Of course they need financial aid to accomplish their aims—worthy ones, everybody will admit—and that's why the Journal has started a fund for them and why the philanthropic Mr. Hammerstein wants to help it along.

All the volunteers for the big benefit are stars of the first magnitude in the theatrical firmament, and foremost among them is Messrs. Weber and Fields, the German comedians, who undoubtedly are the most popular as well as the most entertaining team on the vaudeville stage to-day. They drive away the blues in a jiffy, and their names alone should be sufficient to pack the Olympia.

Then there is Marie Dressler, the jolly little actress of "Tess of the Vaudeville" fame, who proved such a big drawing card at the Pleasure Palace last season. Kara, the famous juggler, will juggle anything that happens to be handy, from coins and knives to chairs and tables. Andrew Mack, the star of "Myles Aaron," and a well-known song writer, is also on the bill.
Bonnie Thornton, the magnetic "little mascot," will sing some of her favorite ditties in her own peculiar style, and her renowned husband, James Thornton, "the man who set the world a-singing," will also appear.

Herrmann III., the famous magician, will perform some of his best and most baffling feats of legerdemain, and Gus Wil-lams and Richard Carroll will tell funny stories. Among the others who will appear are Herr Grals and his wonderfully trained baboon and donkey; Haines and Pettingill, everybody knows 'em; Tattai, the equilibrist; the Dunbar Sisters, English singers and dancers; the Deonzos, the great novel barrel act; Flakesky, the great animal initiator; Anna Lloyd, the serio-comic; the Gerhine Sisters, singers, and the wonderful Romala Brothers, head to head balancers.

The spacious Olympia Roof Garden is far and away the grandest resort of its kind in America—an ideal place for an entertainment in these torrid days. Then go to the Olympia on Friday night; you will surely enjoy yourself and at the same time you will be contributing to a worthy and a noble cause.

OPENING OF THE GRAND CIRCUIT.

Rilma Captures the "M. and M." Stake at the Detroit Meeting.

CRACK PACERS TO-DAY.

John R. Gentry and Robert J.
Will Go Against Their Records Monday.

By O. A. McCully.

Detroit, Mich., July 13.—Judging by the pace which the light harness cracks set today, there will be record smashing aplenty through the grand circuit which is on for the next two months or more. The course at Grosse Pointe was by no means a fast one when the flyers made their bow to an audience of about 5,000 people this afternoon. There was rain yesterday. The hot wave had been succeeded by one that was almost winter-like in comparison, and occasional showers between heats kept the track from drying.

In spite of these drawbacks both trotters and pacers stepped some merry miles in classes that are only available for the younger and untried material. Of these the one for the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Stake far overshadowed the other two in importance. This event has been the leading fixture of the Detroit meeting since 1880, and is to-day the most valuable of all the prizes awaiting the harness racers in the grand circuit. This time it brought together a field of seventeen, the largest one that ever competed for the "M. and M.," as it is popularly known. At the end of seven heats the honors, and incidentally five thousand good American dollars, went to the dark horse.

There was not a great deal of speculation for the bookmakers and the managers of the Driving Club are at a deadlock.
The latter wanted a bonus of $500 on each race, and this was more than the bookies would stand. So pencilers like Andy Welch and Tom Powers were for once mere spectators, while the pools did the business. It is likely that the track managers will surrender before many days, for bookmaking has become popular here.

Oratorio and The Abbot.

In the auction pools Octavia, an Ohio bred mare, that scored 2:13 1/4 at Columbus two weeks ago, was the choice at $100.
Next to her was the much talked of Oratorio, a Kentucky product, owned by Major H. C. McDowell, of Lexington. He is five years old, but had never started before, though he had trotted trials close to 2:12.
Most of the money handled by the auctioneer was on these two, and a long price could be had against any of the others.
At first the Oratorio tickets looked like ready money, for the youngster stepped off with the first heat in 2:13, after drawing seventh position. He had a clear road in the second heat, going to the half in 1:05 1/2, and finishing after a splendid brush with the Abbot, in 2:11 1/2. The latter had tried to get through at the pole, but finding the pocket was too narrow, Geers went outside and made one of his spectacular whirlwind drives. He landed the Abbot at Oratorio's saddle and at once took Kenney to task for interfering with him. The two drivers went to the judges' stand—one to present his case, the other to defend.

Geers, whose sobriquet of "The Silent Man" is usually appropriate, became quite eloquent for once, and won his case promptly. The judges held that there was room for another sulky inside when Kenney turned home with Oratorio, and that the latter had swerved in. Under the rule there was nothing to do but give the heat to the Abbot and set the offender back to last place or send him to the stable.
Starter Harry Loper announced the verdict putting Oratorio in the rear of the party "for pinching the Abbot on the stretch."

There was scarcely a horseman on the ground who agreed with the decision.
Kenney himself, who is a clever, experienced reinsman and brought out Nancy Hanks, said: "That's the worst deal I ever got on a race track. Geers shouted to me as he came up, 'That call, but I would be crazy to do that, when my horse was ahead and there was not room for him to pass me on the inside. I kept on about my business, drove my horse straight and finished first.'"

Rilma to the Front.

After the Abbot, who also made his debut, had caused all this trouble, and with a severe handicap of a record of 2:13 1/4, he dropped out of the chase. His brief appearance was expensive for the blue grass trotter, as it certainly cost him the race.
To go back in the race and get through again was too much for the green youngster, whose efforts were further hindered by lameness that came on yesterday when he was going a few slow miles.

A curi was thrown out after Oratorio had pulled up, and this hurt him so much that a long race was beyond his limit. He had a rest for one heat and then tried as only a well-bred, resolute horse can to triumph over the numerous obstacles that beet his path. Meantime, Red Star, a Hoosier that was out for this event last July and won second money, secured the third heat and a new mark of 2:12 1/4. Then Rilma, a plain-looking bay mare from Mississippi, took a hand that proved to be a winning one.

The crack pacers have the centre of the stage to-morrow, when Joe Patchen, Frank Ryan, Royal Victor, W. W. P. and Tom Ogden are to have a one-mile dash for $2,000. John R. Gentry and Robert J. are to be here next Monday and go against their records.

LARCHMONT'S RACE WEEK.

Three Large Regattas Open to All Classes Part of the Programme—Plenty to Do Every Day.

What promises to be the biggest yachting week of the season will begin at Larchmont on Saturday, when the Larchmont Yacht Club will inaugurate their "race week" with a regatta for all classes.
With the exception of Sunday yacht races, water sports, fireworks, to say nothing of dancing, minstrel shows and what not, will occupy the attention of the members for the next eight days. Entries will close at the clubhouse thirty-six hours before each race.

This week of continuous racing, which was inaugurated by the Larchmonts last year, is for the purpose of encouraging yacht racing and bringing together the crack yachts on the coast. In order that yacht owners racing some distance from New York may be warranted in bringing their yachts to Larchmont the club will hold three large regattas open to all classes, and on the intervening days races for special classes.

The programme in full for the eight days is:

Saturday, July 17.—Open regatta for all classes; special race for schooners in cruising trial in one class; first race of series for class N, 30 feet r. l.; first race of series for class Q, 20 feet r. l. Evening, musical frolic.

Sunday, July 18.—Evening, musical concert.
Monday, July 19.—Special race for schooners in racing trial in one class; special race for schooners in cruising trial in one class; second race of series for class N, 30 feet r. l.; second race of series for class Q, 20 feet r. l. Evening, local talent.

Tuesday, July 20.—Four-oared gig race for "hen and chickens" colors, presented by ex-Commander Gillig; two-oared gig race for "dandies" colors, presented by Mr. H. B.
Seely; dingy race for "execution" colors, presented by Mr. A. B. Seely; race for naphtha lanterns, exceeding 21 feet l. w. l.; race for naphtha lanterns, 21 feet l. w. l. and under; tub races and water sports. Afternoon, ladies' reception and band concert. Evening, ball and illumination of clubhouse and grounds.

classes; special races for yachts over 51 feet, racing trial in cruising trial, all in one class; third race of series for class N, 30 feet r. l.; special race for yachts, 51 feet and under; racing local talent; fourth race of series for class trel.

Daily Overwhelmed Kerkau.

Maurice Daly overwhelmed Kerkau, the German billiardist, in the game last night, scoring 300 points to Kerkau's 85. The total now stands 600 for Daly and 353 for Kerkau. Daly's best run was 135, and his average 124, while his adversary's best run was 157. The German was indisposed last night.

SLOW JUSTICE FOR GAMBLERS.

Police at Coney Island in No Hurry to Serve Warrants.

DENS ARE ALL SILENT NOW

Captain Brown Calmly Says He Knows Campbell and His Two Pals Have Fled.

The Journal's expose of the gambling den at Van Buren's Hotel, on Coney Island boulevard, has had the broader effect of shutting up every gambling establishment in the Sheepshead Bay Precinct.
This is only temporary, of course, because it is well known why these places are permitted to flourish.

The reporter whose visit to "Ike" Campbell's place last Saturday night has been told in the Journal, went with Raymond A. Browne, the song writer, before Police Justice Nostrand, at Coney Island yesterday at noon and swore out warrants for the arrest of Campbell, his dealer, Finley, and his chief "capper," "Fidd" Bates. He charged them simply with being common gamblers, according to section 344 of the Criminal Code, and Mr. Browne, who was one of his two companions on the night that this contingent of the sporting fraternity was beaten at its own game, made a condemnatory affidavit.

The reporter did not bother to get out an additional warrant charging them under section 330 with "winning at play by fraudulent means," and as a matter of fact, so far as the police were concerned, he need not have bothered getting out any sort of warrant. The three now in Captain Brown's hands stand little chance of being served.

The warrants were made out and signed by Justice Nostrand at 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon. They named "Ike" Campbell, "Fidd" Bates and Finley, and of the nine men interested in the game at the Van Buren Hotel they were the only ones who did not put in an appearance at the Brighton Beach race track one hour afterward.
The warrants at that time were still in the Coney Island Police Court. The Journal reporter had told no one in whose names they were made out. The police would not, of course, give out such information.

At 2 p. m. the warrants had not left the Coney Island Police Station. Half an hour later, when the reporter reached the race track, a mounted policeman was giving Captain Brown the news that the warrants were at the station.

"Won't you have them brought over here to you?" asked the reporter, "so that in case I point the men out to you, you can arrest them?"

"Oh, no," said he, "I've got to see the warrants first. Besides, I know the men you have skipped out."

The captain refused to tell where and how he had obtained this interesting piece of information.

GARCIA GAINED TWO VICTORIES.

Routed Spaniards at Cama-gua and Captured Valuable Supplies.

BATTLE LASTED HOURS.

Town of Iguana Taken by the Cubans After a Fierce Fight.

Kingston, Jamaica, July 6.—The twelve Cubans who have just arrived here in an open boat report that a battle was fought at Camagua in which the Cubans were completely successful.

They received word that convoys of food were being sent from Bayamo to Iguana, and gathered to the number of 3,000, under the command of General Garcia. On the scouts' reporting that the convoy was in sight they made a sortie and a fierce contest of some hours' duration ensued.

The Spanish troops outnumbered the adversaries, but, in spite of their fierce defence, the Spaniards were utterly routed, leaving a large number of dead and wounded upon the field. The Cubans also suffered considerable loss, but to nothing the same extent as the Spaniards, who dead were numbered by hundreds.
Cubans captured the supplies and sent also a large number of rifles, with several cases of ammunition.

Garcia Captures Iguana.

The town of Iguana was also the scene of a terrible conflict, but General Garcia his troops were again victorious, driving out the Spaniards with a great of life, they took possession of the town.
Dr. Viera, one of the refugees, says the Cuban troops are in good health have a good supply of food and ammunition. All are well armed, and the difficulty is to keep them in clothes.

He also says that the election of a scent was commenced in the month of and that there has been a genuine of patriotic feeling on the subject the Cubans. The result will not be
